Thames Lunch Cruise and The London Eye for Two

Should you go on a sight-seeing cruise on the Thames? Are the views best from the London Eye? Or should you just cut to the chase and have a nice lunch somewhere? With this experience you can do all three. Board Bateaux London's river cruiser from the glass pontoon at Embankment Pier. Then relax on board and enjoy a three course lunch, followed by tea or coffee. But don't let the great food distract you from the fabulous views, as you cruise past the Houses of Parliament, the Tower of London and many more iconic landmarks. After lunch (from a seasonally changing menu) you'll be dropped off just a few steps from the London Eye. You may have to queue a bit here, but it'll be worth it when you climb aboard your air-conditioned capsule. The Eye slowly turns, giving you sensational panoramic views across London from 135 metres up. This is a fantastic way to enjoy the sights from two unique perspectives.

Availability

Lunch cruises operate every Thursday to Saturday from January to March, Wednesday to Saturday from April to June, Tuesday to Saturday from July to August and Wednesday to Saturday September to November. Please note Saturday availability is very limited.
